

Current/Past Contracts or Working Relationships

As we have grown, we have worked hard to create community relationships that will grow not only in length but also in width. We begin building our relationships with hands-on work and education. First, we work with a client or company here at the center. We increase their awareness of what we offer such as in-company educational services or exhibiting at their company's health fair. In most cases, we are called to a company for an educational program and leave having helped clients in need of personal help. We are small enough that we can address dozens of topics with a quick turn around, and large enough to call on many other community professionals to assist in the highest level of care. Call us and we will be there for you! Here are some of our regional and national relationships:
